The Bateau Phare relaunches its lights, once again illuminating the Quai de la Gare in Paris's 13th arrondissement.

This rebirth signals not only the return of a cultural icon, but also the emergence of an avant-garde beacon in the world of Parisian lifestyle. A new chapter is written for the Bateau Phare, formerly known as Batofar, where the past meets the present to create an unforgettable experience in the heart of Paris.

After years of guiding alternative and urban cultures, the Bateau Phare is now firmly established as a multi-disciplinary venue, combining dining, culture and conviviality in a unique setting.

Deck

Rooftop, cocktail bar & finger food

On the Deck, the lighthouse overlooks an egg-shaped counter, keeping watch over the vast upper deck where marine wood rubs shoulders with riveted steel, in a beach and tropical jungle decor.

Large sand-colored banquette beds, high and low tables, indus design, the shade of a sail and or a trellis...

It's set to become a popular after-work, chill-out bar.

In winter, in a mountain chalet atmosphere, you can warm up with mulled wine, tartiflette...

 100 m2

 For up to 100 people

Carré

Cocktail & tapas lounge bar

Two skylights, a bay window, windows and portholes overlooking the Seine.

The wallpapers, the paintings in shades of blue by artist Laurence Natier, the toadstools and high chairs, the tables recycling the Robinia wood flooring, the alcoves in the passageways, the long counter in waxed concrete...

With its lounge atmosphere, Le Carré is the big surprise of the new Bateau Phare.

 120 m²

 For up to 120 people

Cale & Cabine

Festive bar, Live & Spectacle & Conference

The stage, control room, DJ booth and walls echo the marine aesthetic. The color code is dark blue, except for a white wall for immersive projections. The panels are dimpled and the metal framework exposed, in addition to prodigious backlighting. The mezzanine bar is located at the rear.

Beneath its parquet floor lies the Cabin, with its intimate alcoves that can be transformed into exclusive spaces. The decor is full of surprises, such as the bare hull and glass slabs revealing the metal parts that stabilize the ship.
